

Conclusions

- The integration of MRP data and Indented/Multi-Level Bills of Material in a Monte Carlo Simulation offers many possibilities
- With the variation allowed simply in lead times alone allows for calculation of potential outcomes for project completion risk assessment and critical path item identification
- Integration of costing data and order status enables for the generation of earned value forecasting and risk assessment